[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO JUNE 8

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Wilson introduced a bill for the organization of the government and payment of the army. Referred.

Morrill reported recommending concurrence in the provision that civil engineers and store keepers of navy ports shall be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, and that master mechanics be appointed from civil life. Concurred in.

The bill admitting North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama was taken up. The question was on the amendment of Sherman to strike out the additional fundamental conditions imposed on Georgia and also to strike out from her Constitution provisions preventing the enforcement of contracts made prior to June 1st 1866.

Williams moved to amend the 3d section by inserting the following:

And thereupon the officers of each State, duly elected and ratified under the Constitution, shall be inaugurated without delay, but no person shall be prohibited from holding office under the United States or any State by the 3d section of the proposed amendment of the Constitution of the United States, known as Article 14, shall be deemed eligible to any office in either of said States or relieved from disability by said amendment." Agreed to.

The amendment striking out the proposition forbidding any future abridgement of elective franchise as inserting corresponding provisions of the old bill was adopted. The bill passed by 34 to 7.

Paine of the Committee on Reconstruction, reported bill to relieve from political disabilities, H. Harrison and James R. Boyer, of Arkansas, former Justice elect of the Supreme Court, and latter Auditor of the State. After considerable discussion the bill passed.

The bill authorizing the Post Master General to contract with an American or envelope company to carry mails to Europe, was amended and passed.

The paragraph in the tax bill, imposing a specific tax on cotton brokers, and the paragraph relating to proprietors of bowling alleys and billiard rooms, was amended by making the tax $25 instead of $10. The paragraph relating to jewels was amended, by including in the description of persons those who manufacture goods or wares of gold or silver being stricken out.

The paragraph relating to warehouses was amended to read, proprietors of United States bonded warehouses for storage and articles in bond."

Several verbal amendments were made to the paragraph relating to dealers in leaf tobacco. On motion of Washburne, the first sentence of that paragraph was amended so as to read, "Dealers in leaf tobacco whose annual sales do not exceed $1 000 shall repay $250, and if annual sales exceed $1 000 for each additional $1,000 in excess, they shall pay $200."

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The Chinese embassy, accompanied by Seward and McCulloch, visited Mt. Vernon to-day.

LONDON, June 10.—The Ascot Derby was won by the Marquis of Hastings's colt Kirl Capaple, second, Suffolk; third, the Royal Hunt. The cup was won by Satire Gazely, second, Master Willie; third, 22 horses ran.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Peter McKeenra, a hackman was thrown from a buggy last evening and struck his head on the pavement with such force that his life was despaired of last night. It is now thought there is a possibility of his recovery.

The California Foundry on Fremont street was destroyed by fire this morning. Total loss thirty thousand dollars. Insured for $7 000. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary.

The opposition steamer Guiding Star arrived in New York yesterday with passengers and freight by the Oregonian, which left here May 20th, making the trip in a little over 20 days.

Stephen Hutchinson of the city arrived in New York on last Monday in 13 days and 7 hours from San Francisco via the overland route.

A telegram from Virginia City reports that the overland stage from Austin was stopped six miles east of there last night by three robbers armed with shot guns. It was robbed of three bars of bullion worth $3 684 and $169 in coin. The passengers were relieved of about $1 000 and two gold watches. No one was harmed.

Geo. Stanford of the C. P. R. R. Company, is now in Salt Lake City negotiating with Brigham Young to grade a section of the Pacific Railroad west of Salt Lake.

A dispatch from there dated yesterday, says that an enthusiastic railroad convention met in the new tabernacle and was addressed by Brigham Young, F. H. Head, George L. Carmon, Thomas Marshall, John Taylor and George A. Smith. Resolutions were adopted to the effect that the interests of the Pacific Railroad and Salt Lake City are identical and that the road must inevitably pass south of the lake. Brigham said that a false impression is existing abroad that the people are averse to the construction of the Pacific Railroad, but on the contrary Utah strongly desires the railroad and will help to build it and so far from dreading contact with outsiders, is anxious to become one of the stars of the American flag and hopes to be better liked when she becomes better and more widely known.

BY DALLES TELEGRAPH.

DALLES, June 11.—The official vote of Sherman county gives Smith 423, Logan 398. Smith's majority, 40. P. C. Sels, Republican, ran for State Senator was elected by 5 majority over T. A. Brinkerhoff. The two Democratic candidates for the House were elected; also all the Democratic county officers.

The Columbia river is rising rapidly at this point.

Much Ado about Nothing.

[From the San Francisco Union.]

It was telegraphed from Portland, June 2d, to the Examiner that Joseph S. Smith, Democratic candidate for Congress in Oregon was elected by "an unlooked for majority." Infurious haste the contents of this dispatch were communicated to our "United States Senator elect, Hon. Reuben Crosby, who, in duty bound, with true Democratic enthusiasm, rejoiced. "This is glorious"—and most glorious because it is the first answering gun to the nomination of Gen. Grant and the impeachment farce," from all of which youthful gushing Senatorial sprig concludes there is cause for burning much powder and by all means. And the powder was burnt accordingly, and so ends the first farce of the campaign. The echoes of the powder burnt at the top of Clay street hill did not die away quicker than the said bills of the Presidio than will the moral effect of this much vaunted victory. "How are the mighty have fallen! how are the mighty have fallen!" exclaims the messenger. "But few of any note," and none of name," was the brief reply, which we shall adopt as our answer to this Oregon "victory." We cannot speak positively as to the precise significance in the vote of that State still "1866, but there are good reasons to believe that they have been accessions from the disbanded Rebel armies commanded by Price and others of the Rebel Generals, and if these calculations, which are based upon statistics of immigration, be nearly correct, we have the whole explanation of the Democratic victory over which Conserdy becomes so enthusiastic on Tuesday. By all means let Democrats be burned for the Dutch have taken Holland and Rebels have voted for a Democrat in Oregon, and carried the State. If what Mr. Lee, or Jeff. Davis, or Old Pap Price's war-horse had by their candidate instead of Smith, the majority would have been greater than it is. The joke is not, as Conserdy asserts to the contrary, on the Democrats, but on our Republican friends, who gun to the nomination of Grant and the impeachment fiasco." It would have been the same if Grant or Sherman or Chase had been the Democratic nominees, and we, the side, have to hear of Grant convicted the President. The feat of making capital was due to what Conserdy and his friends, the Democr

The Vote of 1866 and 1868.

We [illegible] below a comparison of the vote thrown in the late election for Mr. Logan with that thrown for Gov. Woods two years ago. The list embraces all the counties west of the mountains from which full returns have been received. These figures show that the defeat of the Union party is not attributable to [illegible] against us, but that it is entirely owing to the influx of a rebel, guerilla population, which has been settling this way for several years past. The Sacramento Union rightly judges that we have lost "but few of any sort and none of name" since our last election. While Mr. Logan's vote in the counties named is 181 greater than that thrown for Gov. Woods in 1866, Smith's vote in the same counties is 1,043 greater than that thrown for Col. Kelly, Gov. Woods' competitor. The figures tell the story. The Union "has no doubt that when the returns are all in, it will be shown that this election was carried by Price's army;" and the conjecture is fully [illegible]. The comparative vote for Logan and Woods is as follows:

	Logan.	Woods.

Polk	615	560

The Reward of Honesty.

While our national bonds go a begging at [illegible] per cent. in gold, the State of Maryland has negotiated with Baring Brothers, London, for several million dollars at four per cent. per annum. What a significant [illegible] story does this fact afford on the [illegible] suicidal policy of the Democracy in [illegible] ing our national credit by their [illegible] and repudiation! Maseachusetts [illegible] now for twenty years at four per [illegible] Rhode Island has perfect confidence in her solvency and in her honor. Had there been no talk of repudiation, or "stop-[illegible]" by paying the debt in greenbacks, and not public men advocated these [illegible] had the opposition not been impeded by the [illegible] opposition, there is not the [illegible] doubt but our national securities would be [illegible] as high or higher in the [illegible] Address of Mr. [illegible]. Our [illegible] of interest could have been reduced [illegible] ing to four, or even three per [illegible] cent. [illegible] can be obtained [illegible] have been reduced, [illegible] have been abolished, [illegible] would already be felt. [illegible] that the tax upon our [illegible] is the heaviest of all our taxes? [illegible] not [illegible] what the disadvantages of [illegible]

[illegible] in the Next Convention.

It will be of interest to our readers to know [illegible] from Oregon at the Chicago Convention. In calling the list of States, L. [illegible] was elected as the Oregon member of the Committee on Credentials, Rufus [illegible] the member of the Committee on [illegible] of Organization. The member of the Committee on Resolutions was H. R. Kinney. [illegible] Barnaby was placed on the Committee on Rules and Order of Business. [illegible] was one of the Vice Presidents of the Convention, and Wm. Barnaby one of the Secretaries. These items are gathered [illegible] of the proceedings of the first day. The full report of the proceedings is not yet received.

The Legislature.

The Legislature will probably consist of ten Republican Senators and twenty Democrats. According to the [illegible] information the Republicans will [illegible] Grant, Douglas, Curry, [illegible] Ty Hill, Washington [illegible] Yamhill, and were holding over in [illegible] The House will [illegible] Republicans and twenty-[illegible] The latter had hoped to [illegible] one or both branches, but [illegible] Smith's majority in the [illegible] will probably be between 1,200 and 1,300. The [illegible] counties undoubtedly [illegible] east of the mountains.

The [illegible] parties of Owyhee who are getting [illegible] from California by way of the [illegible] Railroad and the overland [illegible] are having a [illegible] time of it. The Oro Fino Company purchased a hoisting engine in California and have been waiting two months for it to arrive. — that being the length of time that it started from the end of the railroad for Owyhee. A letter we have [illegible] dated Silver City, June 1, states these facts, and also says that the engine would not arrive for two [illegible] more. The cost of freight is 19 cents per pound from the terminus of the railroad. This freight would have been conveyed from Uma, 135 to Silver City in 25 days, at a cost of 5 cents per pound. This is the difference in favor of the "[illegible]" route by the Columbia river."

During the period of 32 days ending June 1, the Ful[illegible] Company at Owyhee took out of their mine the enormous sum of $150,000. Advices from Owyhee state that California capitalists are h[illegible]ing more generally interested there, and [illegible] that the mines of that section will soon [illegible] anything ever known in Washoe.

The celebrated Jack Cade punished with death all whom he found guilty of "treasonably setting up grammar schools to corrupt the youth of the realm." The Democratic Legislature of Ohio, in the same spirit, disfranchises all the students in the schools and colleges of that State. Here is a valuable suggestion for the Oregon Legislature.

The Kentucky Democracy have endorsed negro suffrage. One of their resolutions declares that "this Government was established for white men and [illegible] posterity, and [illegible] be administered only by them." As the "posterity" included [illegible] of the ex-slaves, the Herald ought to be [illegible] thankful for such a declaration.

The Democratic managers feel that the only chance they have to make a show of opposition against Grant is to put up a life-long Abolitionist against him. They say it makes no difference about their candidate being widely known, the less known about him the better.

River Rising.—The river, after having fallen nearly two feet from the highest point reached during the June rise, has certainly taken to rising again. The water now is [illegible] a foot of the [illegible] floor of the O. S. N. Co.'s dock, and is still [illegible] rising up.

Equal Suffrage in South Carolina.

We published a few days ago the resolution of the South Carolina Democratic Convention, recognizing the colored people as an integral part of the body politic, entitled to full and equal protection under the State Constitution and laws, and expressing a willingness that they should have the right of suffrage, under proper restrictions as to property and intelligence. The debate that arose on this was not as to the propriety of its main principle, but as to whether it went far enough, many of the prominent members considering it too vague. They wanted it plainly and unequivocally stated that the negro of proper intelligence had the right to vote and take part in political affairs. We commend two passages from the debate to the consideration of the "white men's" party of Oregon. Hon. James Chestnut said:

For one I am quite of the opinion that in addition to the very material announcement that we do recognise the negro as an integral part of the body-politic, we should declare that he shall be admitted to the functions of government to that extent to which justice and his capacity may hereafter entitle him; that will imply the idea of qualified suffrage. For my part I think it is a matter of policy—a matter of right—and certainly it is the legal sequence of the action of the people themselves. When they declared emancipation, it followed as a legal and logical sequence that you could not have in the same State an entire free population excluded in every possible manner from the privileges of government. Now, secure to the colored man qualified suffrage in the wisest possible way—it will not interfere with you, and it will make him a good citizen and a firm ally."

Col. G. P. Thompson said:

We have in our midst four millions of people of a race which we believe to be inferior. Their roots extend deeply into the soil, and the question which comes to every man is, what shall we do with these people? We can not let them suffer; we can not allow them to be ruined; we can not transport them to Liberia, for they have attachment to the land as tender as our own. What then? It is our duty to deal with them as members of the body-politic. To deprive them of all participation in the government is contrary to principle and contrary to policy.

It may be suggested that such a course would be inconsistent with the interests of the white race. Sir, it is especially for the interests of the white race that this measure is advocated. I have faith in the prestige of my race, in the Anglo-Saxon energy which has conquered wherever it has marched; and under the influence of this moral and equitable principle I expect that those freedmen will ultimately find the level which God intended they should occupy."

If those two representative Democrats of South Carolina are sent to the July Convention at New York we fear some "unwashed" member from Oregon or the backwoods of Wisconsin will move to have them read out on account of their "nigger equality" sentiments.

STATE ITEMS.

The Salem Record has commenced its second volume.

A correspondent at Monmouth writes that fourteen men started from Portland early on the morning of the election, drove hard, and voted at every polling place on the way. Several of them voted late in the day at Monmouth. All of which was decidedly "Democratic."

Gen. J. W. Jasper, editor of the Lafayette Courier, furnishes his photograph to the patrons of his paper. It is placed in the leading column of his last number. We make this notice of it for fear it might mistake it for a braying ass, to which animal the cut does certainly bear a striking resemblance.

A "citizen" writes from Grande Ronde as follows. We commend his original suggestions to the consideration of our railroad men: I desire through your paper to call the attention of the Salem Central Railroad Company to the importance of establishing a branch of their road to this point, from Salem, via Bethel and Sheridan, as this road would afford cheap transportation to the farmers in this section of the country; besides it would be making to leave these important points out in the cold. We are more anxious about this matter since it has been ascertained that produce and merchandise can be carried cheaper from Dallas to Portland via Salem, with two crossings of the Willamette river, than from that point direct on the west side. Another advantage would accrue to the Company—our Siwashes could supply the capital with berries; also get their salmon from Oregon City at reduced rates. Our Central road and sufficient branches promise the greatest benefit to the country."

[From the St. Louis Democrat, May 10.]

We are told by Copperheads, who have raised no protest whatever against the World's infamous proposition to spend ten millions of dollars to secure the President's acquittal, that it is very wrong for us to question the honesty of those Republican Senators who declare against conviction. Let us see whether there is not ample reason for such a doubt!

On the 13th of January the Senate voted that "having considered the evidence and reasons given by the President for the suspension of Edwin M. Stanton, the Senate do not concur in such suspension." Every Senator voting for that resolution declared under the obligations of his oath that he believed the tenure-of-office act binding upon the President, and that the President's reasons did not justify the suspension of Mr. Stanton. Yet the President has since avowed in his letter to Grant that he then intended and endeavored to prevent Mr. Stanton resuming the office after the Senate had voted, thereby trying to defeat the law; and failing in that, the President has since removed him and appointed a Secretary ad interim, without the consent of the Senate then being in session. For the resolution above quoted, Mr. Fessenden, Mr. Trumbull and Mr. Fowler, all voted. With what shadow of honesty can they now say on their oaths that the President has been guilty of no offense? In law, the attempt to commit a crime is itself a crime. The attempt to defeat the enforcement of the law, frustrated only by General Grant's integrity, is as much a crime as the violation of the law. Moreover, the removal and appointment of Thomas, no reasons existing beyond those which the Senate had just considered and declared against, was at once a violation of the law, a violation of the Constitution, and a direct insult to the Senate. But Messrs. Fessenden, Trumbull and Fowler declare that it was no misdemeanor. Can any man think that these men are honest?

Again, Senator Trumbull voted on the 21st of February that "under the Constitution and laws the President has no power to remove the Secretary of War and appoint any other officer to perform the duties of that office ad interim." Yet Mr. Trumbull now declares that the President, in doing this illegal and unconstitutional act, committed no misdemeanor? Is this an honest declaration?

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, May 12, 1868.

Bingham's closing argument occupied Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday until 2½ o'clock, when he pronounced the last word in this great trial, which has commanded the attention of the people of our own country and of all civilized nations for so many weeks. Each day the galleries were densely crowded with ladies and gentlemen from all parts of the United States and from many foreign countries. The tickets for the days when Bingham was to speak had been engaged in advance, and of the thousands who sought admission —many of them after having traveled a great distance—but few were successful. Members of Congress would go into the gallery, borrow tickets, and send them out to friends, thus smuggling in a great many more persons than the number of tickets issued, and a great many more than could get into the galleries. Every seat was full, and hundreds crowded around the doorways, and stood for hours listening to the eloquent words which held the undivided attention of all within the Senate chamber, as they fell from the lips of that little, sharp-featured man, John A. Bingham, who is, without doubt, one of the most impressive orators in America. Hearts resembles him in size and features, and is his superior in the display of words, but he lacks the impetuous earnestness of Bingham which so enraptures an audience. Bingham closed with a brilliant peroration in the midst of breathless silence. When he uttered the last word, and sank into his seat pale and exhausted by long exertion and excitement, the audience sent up cheer after cheer, and greeted him with the clapping of hands and the waving of handkerchiefs from every part of the galleries. The Chief Justice rose, and, in a manner plainly indicating that he was not only excited but very much displeased at the applause, ordered the Sergeant-at-Arms to clear the galleries. The audience not showing a disposition to vacate, Senator Grimes, who is assured at all mankind, asked, in a very angry manner, that the order be enforced, whereupon the audience hissed him, and he settled back into his seat looking the very picture of distress. Senator Trumbull then got excited, and wanted to have the people who had applauded arrested. Senator Cameron, who has been more grossly abused, slandered and belied than any other living man, rose and said he hoped the audience would not be put out, but Fessenden and Reverdy Johnson called him to order. Senator Sherman moved that the Senate retire for consultation, but the Chief Justice, whose soul was smarting with indignation, refused to entertain any motion until the galleries were cleared. Sherman then rose and stated that he presumed the audience had misunderstood the order, and were not aware of the fact that it was only carrying out a rule of the Senate. This had the desired effect, and the people immediately commenced going out as fast as the 14 gallery doors would admit of their egress, but not fast enough to satisfy Garrett Davis, who called on the Sergeant-at-Arms to put them out. At first the foreign Ministers and the reporters declined to leave, considering themselves privileged characters; but they were soon ousted, and the doors were closed. The audience then crowded into the corridors and expressed their opinions of the Chief Justice and certain Senators in terms far from complimentary. In a few minutes the doors were thrown open and a part of the audience returned, but had scarcely got seated when the Senate went into secret session, and they were again cleared out and soon went home.

On Thursday the Senate again held secret session lasting seven hours. After a great many votes on motions to amend the rules and to fix the time for taking the vote on the impeachment articles, it was agreed to adjourn over to Monday at 10 o'clock, and that the vote on the final question should be taken, without debate, at 12 o'clock on Tuesday.

Accordingly, the Senate met yesterday at 10 o'clock and remained in secret session until 11 o'clock last night. The excitement throughout the city was intense all day. The hotels were overrun with strangers and the Capitol was thronged with anxious visitors. The Senate wing was closed, but the rotunda and all the passages leading to the Senate were crowded up to the hour of adjournment. It was known that Senators were making their fifteen minute speeches on the articles of impeachment, and as the hours passed away the excitement and anxiety rose to fever heat. Every time a Senator came out he was pounced upon by enterprising newspaper-correspondents and members of Congress, who in this manner learned what was going on within. The first Senators who spoke were Stewart, Sherman, Grimes, Hendricks, Edmunds, Williams, Howe, and Morrill of Maine, after recess, Doolittle, Davis, Henderson, Trumbull, and Fessenden; and in the night session, Conness, Harlan, Wilson, Morton and Buckalew. As each Senator who was considered doubtful rose to speak, the most intense anxiety was manifested by reporters and members of Congress to know how he stood. As the hours passed it became known that Stewart, Edmunds, Williams, Morrill, Conness, Harlan, Wilson and Morton had declared in favor of all the articles; that Sherman and Howe sustained the second, third, fourth, eighth and eleventh; that Henderson had opposed all up to the eighth, when his time expired; and that Grimes, Trumbull and Fessenden had opposed all the articles. The disappointment, humiliation and indignation of the Iowa, Illinois and Maine Republicans was beyond description, when they learned that one of the Senators from each of their respective States had proved false, as they believed, to his constituents, his friends and his country. Trumbull received $5,000 a few months ago for defending the reconstruction laws before the Supreme Court, and he was now most offensive in his remarks against articles founded on violations of these same laws, declaring them unworthy of the consideration of a Justice of the Peace. The fact that the whisky ring, which can make $50,000,000 by defrauding the revenue, before the 4th of March next, if Johnson can be kept in office, had proposed weeks ago to raise $10,000,000, if need be, with which to buy the votes of a sufficient number of Senators to acquit him, was freely discussed, and the defection of these Republican Senators was generally counted as a mere business transaction. Corbett and Williams are firm for conviction, and so are Conness and Cole of California, and Stewart and Nye of Nevada,—making a grand and glorious record for the Pacific coast in this trying hour. No amount of praise can do justice to the men who thus hold out for the honor, peace and prosperity of their country and the enforcement of the laws in the midst of great temptations. The remarks of Senator Williams are spoken of by other Senators as having been terribly severe on Fessenden and the other renegades. His written speech, which was not delivered but will be filed with the proceedings, will be published in the New York Tribune to-morrow or next day, as one of the best arguments on the subject. At 11 o'clock the Senate adjourned.

The entire Missouri delegation waited on Henderson and requested him to vote for conviction or resign, and it is said he will do one or the other.

The Illinois people had Trumbull's case under consideration.

Grimes is said to have answered some of his constituents who tried to argue the case with him, that he would vote for acquittal and that "Iowa might go to h—ll!"

To-day the Senate met at 11½ o'clock, and as soon as the doors were thrown open the pressure for admittance was terrible. Never was there such a scraping for tickets before. Senator Howard, who is lying very sick with brain fever, was not able to be present, and when the hour for taking the vote arrived—12 o'clock—the Senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, adjourned until Saturday. It is believed that conviction is certain, although the verdict may be postponed till after the meeting of the National Convention, for it is expected that the Senate and House will both adjourn on Saturday till after the National Convention, which many of the members are anxious to attend.

I believe that most of the Oregonians here will go to Chicago, from which place my next letter will, perhaps be dated.

Mr. Forney resigned his position of Secretary of the Senate to-day, and to-morrow morning we may expect to see the Chronicle of this city, and the Press of Philadelphia, lash the apostate Senators as vigorously as they have been laying it on to Andrew Johnson since the day when he betrayed his friends and his country.

The House transacted some business last week—about the first of any importance since the impeachment trial commenced. The bill to admit the Senators and Representatives of Arkansas, under the new Constitution of that State, was passed by a vote of 110 to 32, only 4 Republicans voting in the negative with the Democrats. Thaddeus Stevens, Chairman of the Reconstruction Committee, has also introduced bills for the admission of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Louisiana, and they will be acted upon in a few days.

Mr. Flanders has introduced a bill in the House to aid in the construction of a railroad from Walla Walla to the Columbia river.

Mr. Mallory has amended the Portland and Humboldt Oregon branch railroad bill so as to compel the company to locate the road west of the Cascade mountains for a distance of 250 miles south of Portland, which will take it through Umpqua and Rogue River valleys.

The American Medical Association, composed of physicians from nearly all the States, was in session here last week. The delegates, numbering about 200, called upon the President, Speaker Colfax, and one or two other prominent officials. On Thursday night they visited the Capitol, in a body, and the dome, the House of Representatives, and the corridors in the House wing, were brilliantly illuminated for their benefit. K.

Hancock as a Presidential Candidate.

The movement in favor of General Hancock's nomination for the Presidency by the New York Convention shows that the opinion is gaining ground among the Copperhead leaders that no candidate can make a show of resistance against the popularity of General Grant and the principles of the Republican party, whose record during the war needs explanation, or whose views on finance[illegible] questions do not need explanation. General Hancock was a gallant soldier, who handled his corps with undoubted capacity, in obedience to the orders and in furtherance of the plans of General Grant. There is nothing in his career to alienate from him the votes of War Democrats. On the other hand, he has recently shown a disposition to commend him to the Copperheads who constitute the mass of the party. He, alone, of the distinguished officers of the army has suffered himself to become a tool of Johnson. He, alone, of all the well-tried commanders under the Reconstruction act once act, has known how to win the applause of the rebels and the hatred of the loyalists in his district. He alone has fraternized with those whom his sword helped to conquer, whose hands are still red from the New Orleans massacre, and whose hearts are still hostile to the Union. He has stooped to pull Johnson's chestnuts out of the burning fire in the South, and in so doing has not only damaged his fair fame as a soldier, but has exposed himself to the ridicule of his employer. For there is no doubt that Johnson's message extolling Hancock as a second Washington was intended, by its very extravagance, to blast the General's Presidential aspirations, even then obvious to the keen eye of a rival. But this display of Johnson's jealousy will, so far as it has any effect, be an additional recommendation of Hancock to Copperhead suffrages. Johnson once removed, no man, outside of his native village, will be found so abject as to do him reverence. Thus Hancock has claims to the nomination in his excellent war record, for war men; in his excellent peace record for rebels, and in his use by and his final antagonism to the Presidential violator of the laws. He has still another claim in the fact that he has not expressed if indeed, he entertains any opinion on questions relating to the national finances. The followers of Pendleton may represent him in the West as in favor of repudiation; the followers of Seymour and of the New York World may print him in the East as ready to pay the national creditors in coin. He may be claimed by Protectionists and Free Traders; by the loyal, the semi-loyal and the altogether disloyal alike. Gen. Hancock belongs, moreover, to that class of men whom the Democrats have recently found most available. Like Pierce and McClellan, he is a man of moderate abilities, flexible opinion and good deportment. He can be measured by the masses. He can be managed by the leaders. He will run well if placed upon a platform made de script and non-committal as himself.

Union Ward Meetings

A mass meeting of Union Republican citizens will be held this (Friday) evening at eight o'clock in each of the Wards of the city, for the purpose of nominating a Committee for each Ward, and of selecting six delegates from each Ward to attend a City Convention to be held on Saturday evening, to nominate a candidate for the office of Mayor. The place of meeting in the First Ward will be Cook's building on the levee, next door to Higgins & Co.'s Soap Works; Second Ward, Court House; Third Ward, Hacker's building, on Front street, between Columbia and Clay. Come out in force, and let us nominate a ticket which will command the respect and support of the taxpaying citizens of Portland.

D. MONNASTES,
WM. MASTERS,
C. DELLS, Committee.

Emigrant-Aid Society.—We clip the following from the Bulletin of the 10th. The suggestion concerning the organization in Oregon of an Immigrant-Aid Society, is worthy of serious consideration:

"As Portland some weeks ago, now is the time for Oregon to push by the truest and enterprise of California. For a long time the leading men and journals of that State have been striving to attract the tide of emigration. They formed an Emigrant Aid Society and sent agents and lecturers to the East, and they have at length succeeded, and emigrants are arriving by sea at the rate of three thousand a month. What all these people are to do in California, and how they are to live, are questions which we are not prepared to answer, in view of the general prostration of the condition of the interior, which was of late so graphically described by the Sacramento Union. The vast land monopolies about them cut from the rich valleys, where capitalists own each many thousands of acres which they refuse to sell, except at rates beyond the reach of settlers. The surface-mines are worked out, and the plains and mountain lands are useless for agriculture. The cities and towns are overflowing with the unemployed industrial people, and Chinese are employed on the public works, in manufactories, and as domestics. And still the great tide of life and industry rolls in at the rate of three thousand a month!

Having rested a while and taken a view of the discouraging situation, hundreds and thousands of these sturdy adventurers will take their way up-coast. Now is the time for the people of Oregon to obtain what is so necessary for the rapid advancement of the State—an influx of hardy and industrious people from the most enlightened quarters of the Union. An Immigrant Aid Society should be formed, and antiquated agents should be sent to San Francisco, with the proper information concerning the country and to direct them the way. Every people know nothing about Oregon, and even in California, very few have any tolerable idea of the immense and fertile fields that await to labor. They will read with incredulity in Mr. Hines' valuable book, if they ever see it, that the Willamette Valley, alone, is capable of supporting a million of inhabitants."

Drowned.—An old man named Hugh Connolly fell into the river in the rear of the New Columbian Hotel yesterday morning and was drowned. It is stated that he was seen to fall into the river about 7 o'clock and that he neither sank nor struggled. He was not, however, taken out till some time afterward, for what reason, we were unable to learn. Connolly was a native of Donegal county, Ireland, aged about 55 years, and had been a resident of Oregon for many years. Some years ago—what year, we do not know—he was a sergeant at-arms in one house of the Legislative Assembly, and was then well known to many of the leading politicians of the State. Since then he had resided mostly in California and Idaho, at La Grande, Oregon, from which place he came here not long since. Suffering from partial paralysis of one side, he was sent to the county hospital about a month ago. Day before yesterday, he was brought over here to be sent by some of friends to California. The Coroner, Dr. Popple ton, being apprised of the drowning, summoned a jury and held an inquest upon the body. The following named acted as jurors: James Wilson, W. J. Warren, [illegible] Wright, Charles Martin, J. Bergman and J. Toosen. The verdict was "accidental drowning." The sum of seven dollars was found upon the person of the deceased, beyond which he had very few personal effects. Mr. A. J. McCormick took charge of the remains for burial.

The Circuit Upton, Judge.—The following were the proceedings of yesterday, in the Circuit Court.

Hall vs. John McBride, default of defendant entered, and cause referred to C. Parker to take proofs. Jas. R. Upton attorney for plaintiff.

Hall vs. John McCurrant; defendant arraigned, plead R. Eyles appointed counsel for defendant.

The Grand Jury presented two true bills of indictment.

Shanah et al. vs. Ann H. Perry; case submitted to Court. Verdict for defendant.

Reed vs. J. B. Parker; action on account—default and no service. Jury empanneled: Gibbs & Parrish, Mitchell, Dolph & Smith for defendant.

Wallace vs. Charles Talmadge; subject matter of action settled and cause dismissed. A. E. Wait, Sheriff.

House at Salem.—The Salem Record, of Wednesday says:

W. R. Ladd, of Portland, has been in town for a few days past, considering what location to select for the site of his banking house. We learn that he closed a trade yesterday morning for the property of Theodore Gerry, on State and Commercial streets. Mr. Patton sells a part of the lot fronting on Commercial street, about 28 feet, and 78 feet on State street, for the sum of $3,600. On this site the U. S. Express store. Mr. Ladd has an eye to rent on the rear of his premises on State street. Under this a valuable site, which is proved by the fact that Mr. Ladd intends to commence building in a few days, and will soon enjoy banking privileges."

Read to Sarah and Bobby McGinley.—Miss Sarah [illegible] by McGinley will take a benefit at Odd Fellows' Hall on Saturday evening. On this occasion a splendid programme will be offered, in which the entire strength of the company will appear, assisted by a company of outside performers. In addition to this, Miss Sarah will be awarded to the author of the best original conundrum, contributed for the occasion. All the competing conundrums which shall be deemed worthy terms, will be read before the audience, and the one which shall be declared by the committee to be the most literally rewarded by the audience will receive the prize watch. A rare entertainment may be looked for.

City Ward Meetings.—By the call of the City Committee for the city, published this morning, it will be seen that ward meetings will be held this evening, in each ward, one candidate for County Court to elect delegates to a city convention to be held on Saturday evening. The places of meeting in the wards are as follows: First Ward, J. W. Cook's store, North Front street, next door to Higgins & Co.'s Soap Works; Second Ward, County House; Third Ward, Hacker's building, Front street. It is hoped that there will be a full attendance at all the places above named.

Insolvency.—We are informed that on Wednesday evening last Lincoln relieved Mr. James Bothwell of his office as Clerk of the County Court, on account of the declared insolvency of Mr. Bothwell to not vote for Rosenheim, and which ground between the Marshal and his Honor, Lincoln, as we are informed, puts the removal on the ground of abusive and disrespectful language. We have not heard Mr. Bothwell's statement of the matter, nor Mr. Jeffries either, except at second hand.

Fire Drill.—The steam fire engines belonging to the city had their first evening for drill and test of speed. The main object of the exercise was to discover the weak points of the old hose unfit for further use. In the course of the drill, several lengths were bursted at a great pressure than may often be required in actual service, and of course will be laid aside, either for repairs or for the need. A sufficient number for filling cisterns, of any new has abundant supplies of new hose.

Personal.—Mr Lewis, of Allen & Lewis, informs us of the day that he had received information of the arrival of the ship Jeannie Alice from Hong Kong on the 29th of May last, with a cargo of Chinese goods, consigned to Wah Kee & Co. of this city. She is a ship of about 1,600 tons burthen. She may be expected to arrive about the 1st of July. Whether this be the vessel since mentioned as being on the way, we cannot say, but presume she is the same.

From New York.—The North American steamship will dispatch the splendid and fast sailing steamer, J. R. Kelly Commander, for Panama this day, to connect with the new steamship for New York. East bound passengers by the Kelly will arrive at San Francisco in time to connect with the opposition line in affording excellent accommodations for much less money than by charged by the P. M. S. S. Co.

Arrivals.—The following were the arrivals yesterday: Per steamer Senator, 32 boxes eggs, 6 cases bacon and 280 sacks flour. Per Wenat, 79 bbls flour, 200 sks feed, 45 bags wheat, 49 gunny sacks beans, 15 kilf bbls lard, 29 bales hay, 1 box wool. By teams, brought down 900 sks flour, 200 sks feed, 4 gunnies beans, 1 bale woolens, 10 sks beans.

Dull Doings.—We have heard that a thorough canvass of the city, to ascertain the number and the names of all legal voters, is talked of. Whether the steps have been taken to secure such an enumeration, or whether it is something that ought to be done, and we hope to see it done as soon as possible. The time of the municipal election, to take place on Monday next, will be greatly promoted by such a proceeding.

Ice Cream.—A strawberry and ice-cream festival will be held by the ladies of the Congregational Church this evening, at the hall in Dr Poppleton's new building on First street, between Yamhill and Taylor streets.

Change of Telegraph Office.—The Portland and Vancouver office has been removed from the office of the Union Telegraph Company, to the Oregon Steam Navigation Company's office.

Gen. H. Wright.—A telegram from Victoria yesterday announces that the steamer Gen. H. Wright left Portland on Wednesday morning, and she is due here.

Israelites.—The Israelites of Portland are respectfully invited to attend a meeting of great import which will be held at the Synagogue at 2 o'clock P. M. next.

Democratic Nomination for Mayor.—The Democratic Convention which met at the Council Chamber last evening, put in nomination for Mayor, Mr. Hamilton Boyd.

Proposals for Building.—The school directors of District No. 1 (the same which advertise for proposals to build a new school house, a mile out of the city, near the line dividing the farms of Terwilliger and Stevens. The plans and specifications may be seen at the store of W. H. Ritter, near the telegraph office, and proposals are to be left there.

Having used the "Grover & Baker Sewing Machine" for many years, I take great pleasure in recommending it to the public, as I believe it superior to all others that have come under my notice. Miss Matthew Crooks.

American and British Mortality Compared

EXPERIENCE OF MUTUAL LIFE.

The labors of Mr. Sheppard Homans presented, we believe, the first known result of the duration of life in the United States of America. There had been much scientific speculation upon the subject and the general impression was that the wear and tear of life on that side of the Atlantic was much greater than on the old continent on the European side, and that, consequently, the mortality would be greater. A few English companies had issued policies on lives on that side, but there was a decided prejudice against, or perhaps we would rather say fear of, the results of the business, and the members assured and the duration of the policies were not sufficient in these cases to afford a basis for observation. It was, therefore, with no small degree of interest that the results of the investigations of Mr. Homans was received in this country.

The observations were confined to the lives assured in the Widows' Life Company of New York, of which Mr. H. was the actuary. They extend over several thousand lives, secured during a period of fifteen years. Comparison can therefore only be made with English assured life, for, at present, there exists no general mortality table founded on the entire population of the United States, although we believe that Mr. Kennedy, of the United States Census office, is taking very elaborate observations, with a view to the preparation of such a table. When we reflect upon the vast area over which such observations must extend, and the constant fluctuations from immigration, change of residence, and the opening up of new territory, we can form some estimate of the herculean labor which such a production will involve. In dealing with Mr. Homans' observation, it should be known that the Mutual is one of the very best life offices in the States, its officers are men of the first intelligence in their several departments, and its business is of equal magnitude with any of the life offices in Great Britain. Mr. Homans was, we believe, United States actuary before he took his present appointment. These facts will point to the following inferences (1), that the lives have been very carefully selected, and that, therefore, the mortality results are more favorable than that of the general population, or than that of less prudently managed offices; and (2), that the investigation has been conducted with sufficient scientific skill and business aptitude to render its results reliable as far as they profess to go.

The mortality experience of that office is less favorable, up to age 33, than that shown by the English "Experience" Table, and for all ages beyond 33 to 70, more favorable. From 70 to 75 the results are identical. The most favorable period shown is that from 35 to 45. The President of the society, Mr. F. S. Winston, thus sums up the results: "Our own experience, though more favorable than the actuaries' (experience) table, or that of any other known, both in its pecuniary results and in its relative mortality, compares more nearly to the actuaries' than to the Carlisle or Northampton table.—Preface to Report, p. ix.

The method adopted by Mr. Homans to distinguish the expected mortality of his office from that actually experienced, was at once the clear and simple that it was certain to be hereafter generally adopted for popular purposes.—Walford's Hand Book of Insurance.

Traditions Exploded.

THE COLOSSUS OF RHODES.

Dr. Octave Delepierre, the learned Secretary of Legation to the King of Belgians, has this week published a book entitled "Historical Difficulties and Contested Events," of which, as destined to lead to much controversy among European scholars, I hasten to send you an account.

The first delusion to which he addresses himself is the Colossus of Rhodes. In the elementary works in use in the English, and I think, the American, schools, the Colossus of Rhodes is represented as a statue with gigantic limbs, each leg resting on the enormous rocks which face the entrance to the principal port of the Island of Rhodes, and ships in full sail passed easily, it is said, between its legs. This is the narrative of the historian Rollin, of several French dictionaries and even of some encyclopedias. The real truth about the Colossus, according to Dr. Delepierre, is that about the year 300, before Christ, the Rhodians, after successfully defending themselves against a year's siege, commanded Chares to erect a memorial statue to the honor of their deity, and this statue was erected on an open space of ground near the great harbor, where its fragments were seen and admired by travelers for many years after its destruction. Toward the end of the second century after Christ the Colossus was reconstructed under the Emperor Vespasian, but of smaller dimensions. The fable of the ancient statue between whose gigantic limbs ships in full sail were believed to have passed, originated apparently at the time of the Crusades, when the the inhabitants of Rhodes amused themselves by relating to the new comers all sorts of incredible stories of their past grandeur.

BELISARIUS.

The romantic tale of Belisarius, the conqueror of the Vandals, deprived of sight by the Emperor Justinian, and compelled to beg his bread in the streets of Constantinople, was mentioned by no contemporary historian, but it has been repeated age after age, and Marmontel's novel propagated the fiction in every language of Europe. The real fact, as recorded by Gibbon, is that Belisarius was guarded for a year as a prisoner in his own palace. His innocence of the treason of which he had been suspected became then acknowledged, and his freedom and honors were restored, but death removed him within a year of his liberation. He was never blind or a beggar.

THE ALEXANDRIAN LIBRARY.

Whether the Alexandrian Library contained 54,000 volumes or 400,000, it is tolerably certain that this immense collection made by the Ptolemies was not, as is commonly supposed, destroyed by the Arabs in the seventh century, but became a prey to the flames when Julius Cæsar who was besieged in that part of Alexandria, in which the museum stood, ordered the fleet to be set on fire. One story has it that the books were ordered to be distributed to the various baths at Alexandria to be burnt in the stoves, and that they last out six months, but it would have puzzled the Egyptians to heat baths with parchment! Another fiction was that at the taking of Babylon, the books were thrown into the river Euphrates, and the number was so great that they formed a bridge over which foot passengers and horsemen went across.

WILLIAM TELL.

The tale of William Tell is pronounced to be nothing more nor less than a Northern saga that has been adopted and repeated from generation to generation. The revolution which took place in Switzerland in 1307, gave rise to the legend of the Swiss hero and from that time to the present writers have continually tried to expose its unsound basis, but the public, equally pertinacious, have insisted on believing in its truth. The story was not known until two centuries after the supposed event, and the chroniclers of the Middle Ages, so eager after extraordinary facts and interesting news, are entirely ignorant of it. Tell's lime tree, or the center of the market place at Altdorf, and his cross bow, preserved in the Arsenal at Zurich, are not more valid proofs than the pieces of the true cross which are exhibited in a thousand places.

Japan has of late been the scene of internal commotion and sundry scrimmages between the natives and foreigners. A letter from Yokohama gives the following account of a sample of them:

"A high retainer of a native prince passed through the settlement with a retinue of 150 Lamoureil. To this great man all the Japanese bowed with their faces to the earth, but the foreigners not doing so, evidently irritated the band, and either without any provocation, or no greater annoyance than their path being crossed by a Frenchman, they commenced an attack by spearing the Frenchman, and firing down the street wounding an American. Quick as thought, the American forces on guard, duly at the custom house, the English picquet and the legation guard, with Sir Harry Parkes at their head and a body of private citizens were after them and they retreated to a hilly country some three or four miles to the rear of the settlement."

The Republicans of the ... on ... to-day, returns on the night of the 12th of May nominated ex-Gov. Buckingham for United States Senator. The vote stood Buckingham eighty-seven, Hawley ... fifty nine. We presume Buckingham has been elected, though the fact has not been reported by telegraph.

The Sabbath.

Fresh glides the brook and blows the gale
Yet under halts the quiet mill
The whirling wheel, the rushing sail,
How motionless and still!

Six days of toil your child's train
The strength the slave, I wait in vain
The seventh thy Lord's command to rest
And hath made it free!

Ah tender was the law that gave
The holy respite to the toiled
To breathe the gale to rest by the wave
And know the wheel may rest

But where the waves the gentlest ride
What image charms to light thine eyes
The spire reflected in the tide
Invites thee to the skies.

To teach the soul its noblest worth
The rest from mortal toils is given
Go snatch the brief reprieve from earth,
And pass a guest to Heaven.

They tell thee, in their dreaming school
Of power from old dumb lore buried
When rich and poor, with Justice rule,
Shall share the altered world

Alas! since time itself began
That fable hath but fooled the hour
Each age that ripens power in man,
But subjects man to power.

Yet every day in seven, at least
One brighter public shall be known
Man's world a while hath strictly ceased,
When God proclaims his own

Six days may rack divine the poor
Oh, Dives, from thy banquet hall
The seventh is the Father opens his door,
And holds His feast for all.

—Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.—We copied the other day some strong language from the New York Citizen, a Democratic journal, edited by Miles O'Reilly, (Col. Halpine,) relative to Pendleton and others named as possible Democratic candidates for the Presidency. The San Francisco Monitor, in its issue of May 30th, copies largely from the same article and introducing the subject, says

"While we don't agree with our cotemporary that it is absolutely necessary to put up either Hancock or Farragut, in order to neutralize Grant's influence with the disbanded soldiers, we do think it necessary to nominate a 'war man,' to win the fight.'

Among extracts from the Citizen, as occupied and indorsed by the Monitor, are the following:

"Their question is simply between a loyal Democrat and an extreme Republican, the former party has but little chance against Grant at best, and their defection would merely make it doubly sure. The War Democrats are fully united in the ranks of an organization that has outraged patriotism for so long, with the slightest link of association.

The War Democrats do not undertake to dictate who the fortunate individual shall be who is to lead one army in the great struggle for power for the White House but as only two prominent candidates representing the views have been put forth, a word may be permissible as to their comparative merits. As between Grant and Farragut, the former has the army with its millions of voters, while the latter only has the navy with its thousands, the former holds a fixed representation, while the latter had none; Grant is an conceded Republican, although not a strong one; Farragut may be the same thing for all the public knows. But with Hancock this is different, probably he would draw as large a vote from the survivors of our battle-fields as his opponent, the Chief Cook of the army was the favorite of his rank; he holds a positive and recognized position as the representative of a national idea, and in direct opposition to General Grant. While not ignoring the great changes that have been wrought by the war, while refusing to sully the glories or give up the advantages of our success, he is still a Democrat, and the embodiment of all that is good and true of the Democracy. With him success is possible, without it is impossible, while with Pendleton defeat is certain."

THE PROPOSED POSTAL TELEGRAPH.—A bill was introduced in Congress by Representative Washburne, of Illinois, for the construction of a Government telegraph line, under the direction of the Postoffice Department, between New York and Washington, providing that the Postmaster General, within thirty days, etc., use in two newspapers in Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, for proposals for constructing a telegraph line from the Postoffice in Washington to the Post Office in New York, via Philadelphia and Baltimore, and such intermediate stations as he may designate. The Postmaster General shall, at the same time, receive proposals from the proprietors of any existing line of telegraph, any of said cities, or for the whole line herein provided for, with the franchises, rights and privileges connected therewith. The proposal of the lowest bidder is to be accepted, and the work is to be of the best character. Power is given to the Postmaster General to establish telegraph stations at as many postoffices along the line as, in his judgment, the public interest with due regard to the economy of administration shall require, and shall employ in the business, as far as practicable, the employ of the postoffices, and also special telegraph clerks, when necessary, at the customary salaries, and employ a general superintendent, who shall be a practical telegrapher, at a salary not exceeding $3,500 per annum. No line is to be sent out stamped with a three cent stamp. There shall be a uniform rate for the transmission of messages, without regard to distances, of one cent each for every fifteen letters of the address and signature; but no message shall be sent for a less sum than ten cents, and there shall be charged extra for the delivery of each and every message. Provided, that Government shall be entitled to send and receive all its messages over the line free of charge, and shall have priority in sending them, and provided that when less rates than are herein provided shall be charged by any other telegraph line in the same points, the Postmaster General may reduce these rates to conform thereto, and provide further that he may direct that news dispatches for publication by newspapers shall be transmitted at a reduction of not exceeding 50 per cent on these rates.

THE MODOC NEWSPAPERS.—Under this caption the Monitor refers to the claims of certain parties, against the city of San Francisco, for damages done them by the mob on the occasion of the assassination of the President, by the destruction of some material belonging to the disloyal journals Brady of the Monitor for instance, asks $8,500, Nugman, of the Irish News, $13,329 93, Montgomery of the Vanguard, $18,522, and Marriott of the News, the little sum of $10,000 also. And on these claims the Monitor says

"We cheerfully admit that Messrs Brady, Marriott and Montgomery are entitled to damages, and should receive them promptly, but at the same time, we submit (and we know whereof we speak) that the smallest sum which either one claims would be sufficient remuneration for the whole and leave ample margin for interest into the bargain. Nugan's loss, we believe, consisted in having a 'form,' worth from $90 to $25, partially 'pied' but whether this was the action of the mob or a simple accident, we have yet to learn. The city may be a fat goose, but so long as we are obliged to contribute to her feathers, we will protest against her being too rudely plucked."

A society for the promotion of crocodiles is needed. The Hindoos throw all their dead into the sacred waters of the Ganges, where they were formerly at once devoured by the scaly scavengers who infested that stream in myriads. Latterly English sportsmen have so reduced the number of crocodiles that the corpses gather in the eddies and lagoons along the stream, and poisoning the atmosphere, breed the cholera which has so scourged the world in recent years.

The Journal says that the Specie fired guns at Ireka over the Oregon election, hurrahed for Jeff Davis and got so beastly drunk that they could hardly crawl.

Every member of the Arkansas Legislature was in session is able to write his own name. Such an accident has not hitherto occurred within the memory of the oldest inhabitant of that State.

The San Francisco Dispatch (Democratic) says:

"It is folly for us to think we have an easy task before us. Grant is unquestionably the strongest man the Radicals could have nominated, and unless Democrats do their duty by laboring for the success of the party, there success is not certain. It is misfortune that the Democratic National Convention is delayed until the 4th of July, a great advantage is thus given to the opposite party. Six weeks in advance they placed their ticket in the field, and are busily engaged in organizing, and preparing for the Campaign. Six weeks advantage is a great deal. During that time they will thoroughly organize and become a strong compact body."

When the Sultan goes to the theatre he makes a business of it. He lately went to the Naun theatre and staid from six o'clock until midnight. He heard in that time the whole of the Barbers, and an act each of Robert "Linda," "Martha" and "Norma." At the close he sent the manager a present of $1,000.

NATIONAL UNION PLATFORM.

1st. We congratulate the country on the assured success of the Reconstruction Policy of Congress (applause) as evidenced by the adoption in a majority of States thirty in rebellion of Constitutions securing equal, civil and political rights to all (applause), and we regard it as the duty of the Government to sustain those Governments and prevent the people of such States from being remitted to a state of anarchy or military rule. (Applause.)

2d. The guarantee by Congress of equal suffrage to all loyal men in the South was demanded by every consideration of public safety, gratitude and justice, and must be maintained, while the question of suffrage in all loyal States properly belongs to the people of those States.

3d. We denounce all forms of repudiation as a national crime (immense applause), and national honor requires the payment of the public indebtedness in the uttermost good faith to our creditors at home and abroad not only according to the letter but spirit of the laws under which it was contracted. (Long continued applause.)

4th. It is due to the labor of the nation that taxation should be equalized and reduced as rapidly as the national faith will permit. (Applause.)

5th. The national debt, contracted as it has been for the preservation of the Union for all time to come, should be extended over a fair period, and it is our duty to encourage the rate of interest therein whenever it can honestly be done. (Applause.)

6th. That the best policy to diminish our burden of debt is so to improve our credit that capitalists will seek to lend money at lower rates of interest than we now pay, and must continue to pay so long as repudiation parties or total open or covert, is threatened or suspected. (Applause.)

7th. The Government of the United States should be administered with the strictest economy. The corruptions which have been so shamefully nursed and fostered by Andrew Johnson, call loudly for radical reform. (Loud cheers.)

8th. We profoundly deplore the untimely and tragic death of Abraham Lincoln, and regret the succession of Andrew Johnson to the Presidential chair, who has acted treacherously to the people who elected him and the cause he was pledged to support, who has usurped legislative and judicial functions, has refused to execute laws, has used his high office to induce other officers to violate the laws, has employed his executive power to render insecure the lives, property, peace and liberty of citizens, has abused the pardoning power, has denounced the National Legislature as unconstitutional, has persistently and habitually created by official acts of power, as far as in his power, every attempt at the reconstruction of the States lately in rebellion, has perverted public patronage into an engine for wholesale corruption, has justly been impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors, and has been pronounced guilty thereof by the votes of 35 Senators. (Applause.)

9th. The doctrine of Great Britian and other European powers that because a man is once a subject he is always so, must be resisted at every hazard by the United States, as a relic of feudal times not authorized by the law of nations and at war with our national honor and independence. Naturalized citizens are entitled to be protected in all their rights of citizenship as though they were native born. No citizen of the United States or naturalized must be liable to arrest or imprisonment by any foreign power for acts done or words spoken in this country and if so arrested and imprisoned, it is the duty of the Government to interfere in his behalf.

10th. Of all who were faithful to the trials of the late war, there were none more faithful for special honor than brave soldiers and sailors who endured hardships in camp and cruise and imperilled their lives in the service of their country. The bounties and pensions approved by law for these liberal defenders of the Union are obligations never to be forgotten. (Applause.) The widows and orphans of the gallant dead are wards of the people, a sacred legacy bequeathed to the United States for proper caring. (Applause.)

11th. Foreign immigration in the past has added so much to the wealth and industrial resources of this nation, the asylum of all nations, that it should be fostered by a liberal and just policy.

12th. This Convention declares its sympathy with all oppressed people who are struggling for their rights.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

The following additional resolutions were offered and adopted, by Mr. Thompson:

Resolved, That the adjournment of this Convention shall not work dissolution of the same, but it shall remain, as organized, subject to be called together at any time or place that the Republican Executive Committee shall designate.

Resolved, That we recognize the great principles laid down in the Declaration of Independence, as the true definition of Democratic government, and we hail with gladness every effort look ing to making those principles the living reality on every inch of American soil.

A THRILLING INCIDENT

In the religious life of Mrs Ingalls, in Burmah, is well told in the "Baptist Messenger," relating how she was sent for to visit one of the Bibi that high priests, who had been nearly killed; and how, while in the most holy place in their temple, where none but the priests had ever before been admitted, she was permitted unrebuked to use for him the sacred vessels, which none but the high priest dare touch, and to even overturn and set on one of those gods to rest, all through the magic influence of the Pain Killer, called by them the "wind medicine," so successfully had she used it in curing their many diseases, since they considered heretofore fatal in that locality among which were cholera, liver complaint, dyspepsia, the bites of venomous reptiles, &c. This speaks the volumes for the Pain Killer.—London Times.

Rev. J. E. Clough, Missionary at Ongole, Southern India writes: "We esteem your Pain Killer very highly for cramp in the stomach, cholera, &c., and cannot very well get along without it."

Rev. I. D. Colburn, Missionary at Tavoy, Burmah writes: "I shall be happy to assist in extending a knowledge of a remedy so speedy and effectual."

THESE WHEELS EXCEL ANY OTHER WHEEL in use and are a full improvement on the Leffel American Turbine, but excel it in every particular.

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern—That A. Myers is publishing and circulating a statement that I am selling an infringement on the Leffel wheel and he will prosecute said infringement to the utmost extent of the law. His statements are not worth a denial. His game is "flash," which if he would only take the case to Court would soon be played out. I will meet it.

I would be glad to get a case into the United States Court and get a decision. That would forever stop the mouth of Myers and his misrepresentations. The legal opinions of more reputable lawyers than Dodge & Munn and A. Myers have pronounced my patents no infringement on the American Turbine. H. W. SHIPLEY.

AMERICAN DOUBLE TURBINE

THESE WHEELS, UNEQUALLED AND UNRIVALLED in the United States or the world, have been fully tested on this coast, many being in use at this date, driving all kinds of machinery. Saw Mills, Flour Mills, Quartz Mills, Woolen Factories &c., &c.

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern. I hereby give notice that the so-called "Shipley's Pacific Turbine Water Wheel" is a direct infringement on a copy of the James Leffel's American Double Turbine Water Wheel, and its manufacture and use is hereby prohibited. Any person or persons making using, constructing or vending said Water Wheels will be proceeded against in law for damages and penalties. Parties interested will take notice, for I shall prosecute and infringements to the utmost extent of the law.

That all may know I mean what I say, and am not playing "bluff," I give the following extract from a legal opinion on this subject from one of the most eminent Patent Attorneys in the United States.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 17, 1868.

MR. A. MYERS—In accordance with your request, we have examined the patents of Shipley on Water Wheels, and are clearly of the opinion that they both infringe the Leffel's patents. In both of Shipley's Wheels he uses the ripper and other devices of buckets precisely as Leffel does and in this he clearly infringes. The fact that Shipley has applied another series of buckets in addition as those used by Leffel, does not relieve him from the consequences of infringement at all. He has no right to use the two tier of buckets whether alone or with a third or any other number of tiers added. It is a clear infringement. Respectfully yours,

DODGE & MUNN

I hereby give notice that I will prosecute every infringement on our Patents, whether it is the maker, user, buyer or seller. Every infringement whether our claims are used in whole or in part, will be prosecuted.
